

Dear Nastya and Yura!

Thank you for providing the task for our team and for giving the ability to improve our testing skills so that we could further use them in our future work.

After analyzing the user story and its acceptance criteria, the testing team (QA students) have got some questions to the business analyst (BA) and the answers to these questions will make the work of our team more effective and high-performance.

Here is the list of our questions:

General questions to the User story

1. Is the user logged in?
2. What page of the "Personal data" section is the user on?
3. Are the changes saved after clicking the "Save" button?

Questions to the AC1

1. Which site's page is the user on?
2. In which section does the user click "Edit"?
3. Under which banner is the "Edit" button located?
4. What specific fields should be editable?
5. Are all fields editable?
6. When does the "Save" button become active?
7. Can I leave the field blank?

Questions to the AC2

1. How do I know if a field is editable?
2. What alphabet is available for input?
3. What is the minimum and maximum number of characters allowed in the field?
4. Which register is allowed in the field?
5. Does the system treat hyphen and apostrophe as special characters?
6. Can you paste data from the clipboard?
7. Are spaces allowed in the field?
8. What is the specific red color code?
9. What text is displayed in the warning message?
10. What are the requirements for the warning message?
11. How can you close the warning message and continue editing?

Questions to the AC3

1. What is the specific name of the field?
2. What is the minimum and maximum number of characters allowed in the field?
3. Can you paste data from the clipboard?
4. Is it allowed to enter a hyphen, apostrophe, a space?
5. Is the field case sensitive?
6. Is the system skipping a blank field?
7. What is the behavior of the system when entering non-Cyrillic alphabet?
8. Will the "Save" button be active after entering non-Cyrillic alphabet?

We would be grateful to the business analyst for providing further information regarding the requirements.

Hope for our further successful cooperation.
